

Visit SuburbanRails.com/modular.html for all related links

We've been building skateboard ramps and parks since 1984...
Before skateboarding was a fad - we helped create the fad...
Purchase your skatepark from a company that lives skateparks. Not from a company trying to cash in on the craze because skateboarding is now "profitable"

Every park we build is custom designed to fit the specific needs of your local skaters. We don't offer a catalog of modular objects. We create the park with flow and creativity.

We work with your community!

- All of our skateparks are custom built on-site
- We purchase materials locally - The money remains in the community.
- We also work with donated lumber!
- Skilled craftsmen can donate their time to help build a BIGGER park!

Modular Skateparks are Evil:

I first heard about Skate Wave from Heidi Lemmon, the director of SPAUSA. Heidi has been trying to get a skatepark built in Watts and South Central for a few years now, with little luck. Recently the city did finally decide to build a park. Instead of consulting with Heidi, however, and learning the needs of the skateboard community, they ignored her valuable knowledge of the area and contracted Skate Wave to build the park.

"It's crap," Heidi said. "It cost $100,000 to build and it's just two quarter pipes, a mini ramp and a couple rails."

><http://www.skateboard.com/frontside/SkateLife/Features/jahglove/europa2002.asp?FromNewsletter=1&NewsletterID=20>

Read about pre-fabbed parks 50-50.com

"Kahuku follows the footsteps of Wahiawa and gets modular prefabricated Skatewave obstacles. Made by playground equipment companies, these obstacles severely fail to attract users and are often left unused. Building unchallenging and uncreative pre-fabricated obstacles, companies like Skatewave are quick to cash in on the 'skatepark bandwagon' and are completely out of touch with the long-term needs of the skateboard community.

>http://www.50-50.com/absorb/articles/2001/skatepark\_progress.shtml#kahuku

SkateNorcal.com Prefab:

..It was absolutely disgusting. Most of the ramps were absolute crap. These people have no business telling city's what skaters want. Most of them have no affiliation with skaters of any kind. It's big business trying to cash in on the "skatepark craze".

><http://www.skatenorcal.com/ratings.shtml>

If you want the best park for your budget please contact us. Your bikers and skaters will thank you.